

Mac Martin

*Program Leader; Texas A&M
Forest Service - Urban and Community Forestry Program*

Mac Martin is the Program Leader for the Texas A&M Forest Service's Urban and Community Forestry Program. This program works with decision makers in developing communities across the state to help them understand the role forests and trees play in both improving and protecting their community, while still fostering sustainable economic growth. He is also a Certified Arborist through the International Society of Arboriculture.

For the past two years Mac has served as the Partnership Coordinator in the UCF program. He and his wife moved to Texas in 2019 after graduating from the Warnell School of Forestry at the University of Georgia.
